REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The republican electors of the state of Wisconsin are requested to elect delegates to a state convention to be held in the capitol, at Madison,

WEDNESDAY SEPT. 8, 1886,

at 12 o'clock, noon, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates of the republican party for the several state offices, to be voted for at the ensuing general election in November. Each county will be entitled to delegates as follows, the representation being based upon the number of votes cast for Mr. Blaine in 1884, one delegate to each 500 votes, or major fraction of 500—each county entitled to one delegate, without reference to number of votes cast:

Counties.	Vote for Blaine.	No. of delegates.	Counties.	Vote for Blaine.	No. of delegates.

State central committee.

Hudson, Wis., July 12, 1886.

The point is whether Gabe Bouck's pockets are large enough to carry the labor and the democratic votes this fall. He is trying to stuff them all in at once.

The senate thinks of cutting down the river and harbor bill 25 per cent. Make it 50 and the country will forgive the senate for many things it has done which need an apology.

Senator Sawyer's bill for a new federal building at Oshkosh, to cost $100,000, was concurred in by the house yesterday and now needs but the approval of the president to become a law. At the last moment, Bragg secured an amendment retaining the internal revenue offices at Fond du Lac, and the senate agreed to it.

A fact that should not be forgotten in five years after the administration closed: "President Hayes' administration was not a brilliant one, but it was a brave one in its treatment of the southern question, of the problem of civil service reform, and of all other great issues that arose. The country prospered under it and the republican party waxed strong."

The way Commissioner Black, of the pension bureau, observes the civil service law is well illustrated in a recent case. In his office was a poor girl working for $480 a year. She was competent and was worthy of promotion. She supported an invalid mother out of her scanty income, and for her industry, efficiency and good character was entitled to consideration. But Black wanted the place for his mother-in-law, and he discharged the girl and the mother-in-law was installed, and in a few weeks was promoted over other clerks to a $900 position. If there ever was a fraud in office it is General Black.

An interesting biographical sketch of Joe Jefferson, the most beloved, if not most famous, of American actors, appears in the August Harper's. The writer, William Winter, traces his dramatic talent through a long line of illustrious ancestors who followed the same profession, and shows how well the player of "Rip Van Winkle" deserves the astonishing success which enables him to gratify his fondness for painting on his Louisiana estate, with only a small exercise of his stage talents to interrupt his study of the other art. The excellent portrait of Mr. Jefferson as "Bob Acres," by J. W. Alexander, which excited unusual attention in the academy exhibition two years ago accompanies the article as the frontispiece to this number of the magazine.

CALLING A HALT.

The funniest thing the administration has done in sixteen months is the issuing of the order commanding understrappers in official positions from taking any part in politics. Since Mark Twain made his banquet speech at New Haven in which he told the students of Yale how he would have fought Waterloo, nothing has come from a public man quite as humorous as Mr. Cleveland's order to his subordinates to cease meddling with politics. In the order is found the following paragraph:

Officeholders are the agents of the people, not their masters. Not only is their time and labor due to the government, but they should scrupulously avoid in their political action, as well as in the discharge of their official duties, offending by a display of obtrusive partisanship the neighbors who have relations with them as public officials. They should also constantly remember that their party friends, from whom they have received preferment, have not invested them with the power of arbitrarily managing the political affairs.

Here is some more of Mr. Cleveland's "public office is a public trust," that will make George William Curtis shout himself hoarse. He will double-lead his next editorial on the marvelous triumphs and the conspicuous purity of President Cleveland's administration. But what does it all mean? It means fatly for the mugwumps and a cunning wink at the democratic office holders who are doing diligent work for the party which gives them the offices.

Ever since the present administration was inaugurated democratic partisans have been appointed to office. This is no business to any republican, for this is a democratic administration and the democrats are entitled to all the offices, but in the face of the pledges made by the president that "persons holding public positions shall be assured that their tenure depends upon their efficiency and fidelity to their trusts and not to the party to which they belong," there is a good deal of hypocrasy connected with this administration, for Mr. Cleveland has promptorily suspended hundreds of faithful republican officeholders, who took no special part in politics, and put in their places democratic party workers. He has not only done this in hundreds of cases, but he will continue to do the same thing.

These facts make his late order humiliatingly ridiculous, because it was intended for buncombe and not to be obeyed.

THE MORRISON RESOLUTION.

In discussing the Morrison resolution relative to the payment of United States bonds or notes with the surplus in the treasury, the Milwaukee Sentinel says:

We regret to see that a large number of republicans joined with the democrats in supporting the resolution, and that among them were several from this state, while no Wisconsin republican voted against the resolution. Whether they fancied it was a shrewd policy to swell the vote of distrust in the financial policy of the administration which has been its soundest feature, or whether they were influenced by that political cowardice which sometimes leads a member of congress to vote against his convictions through fear that he may not be able to successfully defend his conduct before his constituents, the public must judge. In either case we think they were guilty of a serious mistake.

The analysis of the vote on the resolution shows that seven of the nine Wisconsin members voted for the resolution, while Mr. Caswell's and Mr. Van Schaick's names do not appear on either side, and therefore they were absent or paired. It is difficult to understand why republican members joined the democrats in this attempt to force the president and secretary of the treasury into doing what they thought best not to do regarding the paying out of the surplus in the treasury in redemption of bonds and notes. There are certain points connected with this matter that the public should understand.

One of these points is that the financial policy of Mr. Cleveland is the fairest thing about his administration. He has gained some confidence by the conservative financial conduct of his administration, and he is endeavoring to maintain it. That policy, the chief feature of which has been sustained by Mr. Cleveland, was inaugurated by the republican party while in power, and both the president and Mr. Manning are wise enough to know that it would not do to abandon that policy. But, as it has before been said in the Gazette, there are a great many democrats who believe in repudiation. They never did believe in upholding the credit of the United States. They first wanted to pay the bonds in greenbacks, contrary to the solemn pledge of the government, and now they want to pay all bonds and notes in silver, which would also be a breach of faith on the part of the government, and because Mr. Cleveland and his secretary of the treasury won't do this, Mr. Morrison, the democratic leader of the house, offered his coercive resolution, which is nothing less than a political trick to excite opposition against the president. Simply because Mr Cleveland has in the main, adopted the republican financial policy as his own, the republican members of congress ought not to vote to change that policy.

Under republican administrations, the secretaries of the treasury exercised their own judgment in regard to the redemption of bonds with the surplus funds in the treasury, and that discretion was always exercised wisely, so that in twenty years the republican party paid off nearly half the immense war debt. But the democrats do not seem to have the same confidence in their president that the republicans had in theirs, and hence the Morrison resolution to force him to change his policy.

There is a strange condition of things now existing concerning the question of currency. Silver is being piled up in the government vaults at the rate of two millions a month. People don't want so much of it because they can't use it, and yet the coinage goes on; and the real object of the Morrison resolution is to force the speedy payment in silver of all bonds and notes, thus taking away from those who have claims against the government their option to take payment in notes, silver or gold.

In this piece of political trickery the republican members of congress should have taken no part. It is doubtful if the resolution will be concurred in by the senate; but if it should be, Mr. Cleveland will doubtless veto it and thus checkmate his financial opposers.

To Consumptives.

Reader, can you believe that the Creator afflicts one third of mankind with a disease for which there is no remedy? Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured hundreds of cases of consumption, and men are living to-day, healthy, robust men, whom physicians pronounced incurable, because one lung was almost gone. Send 10 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on consumption and kidney affections. Address World's Dispensary Medical association, 663 Main street, Buffalo, New York.

POWDERLY SPEAKS.

HE SAYS SOME BITTER THINGS REGARDING THE MILITIA,

And Advises All Knights to Leave the Ranks—He Wants Bankers and Railway Men to Carry the Muskets and See Who Will Win When the Fight Occurs—Grape Creek.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 16.—The eastern association of the green-bottle glassblowers met in Bartlett hall at 10 a. m. Thursday. Mr. Powderly and Mr. Denny entered at 10:15. They were greeted with deafening applause. Mr. Denny spoke first. Mr. Powderly followed, saying: "I am listening to the sound of music. It brings me back to an hour ago, when we got off the train and walked over to the hotel. I saw a crowd of men and women and heard music all about me. I saw glistening bayonets, the gray suits, and the soldiers marching in order. This was the arrival of the Fifth Maryland regiment. I thought it was the same welcome accorded to the men of the glass association. Did anybody meet you? Was there any music for you? I looked into their faces. Some were men of means, and some were mean men. They are clerks and tradesmen. They carried arms for exhibition. Men who produce wealth assemble to-day to honor those who, when workingmen demand their rights, stand as a menace to them. Where labor has asserted itself that array of bayonets has stood between them and their rights. It has been demonstrated that two-thirds of the regiments of each state are members of the Knights of Labor. When their time expires they will not rejoin. Let the men in the banks and the railroads fill up these ranks, and when labor and capital stand arrayed we will see who will win. They will be too cowardly to do it. We do not beg you to come into our organization. I do not prompt you for my sake, but for yours and the cause of labor. I do not ask you to surrender your right to regulate your trade in your way, but I promise to assist you in a way you can not do yourselves. I want to see the day when no liquor or medicine is poured from a bottle that is not made in America and by Americans. Any bottle that is brought to my house never goes out alive. That is a small thing, but if 10,000 men did it, it would make a big hole. You have heard of the strike and the boycott. It has prejudiced some against us. They have listened to the newspaper. When a newspaper has been boycotted it has been at the request of the Typographical union. Join your western brethren. You will then be a standing menace to your trade. Talk about protective tariff. If the workingmen organize you may take down the tariff. It protects the manufacturer. Our organization is not perfect. God made some things imperfect. If I were a dynamiter I would hate to see it wasted. The boycott is a dangerous weapon. It is a double-edged sword. The Knights should know how to use it. Then, when a boycott or strike goes out, it will be effective."

When the vote to join the Knights was taken, 42 voted yea and 26 nay.

The Grape Creek Troubles.

GRAPE CREEK, Ills., July 16.—The last of the eighty negroes imported by the Grape Creek Coal and Coke company, panic-stricken by their surroundings, have departed for other localities, the Knights of Labor and Miners' Protective and Benevolent association paying their expenses since arriving here last Friday and their railroad fares to destinations. The other negroes who had been engaged will not be brought on. The strikers are now essentially masters of the situation. The action of the company in evicting the strikers from its houses has added intensity to the bitter hatred which these men and their families already entertained against the company, and they now declare that even starvation can not drive them back to work, except upon their own terms, and that under no circumstances shall others work the mines.

The Closed Tanneries.

LYNN, Mass., July 16.—The situation at Peabody remains the same with the exception of the 150 men in the employ of Dennis Oavorn, they having returned to work Thursday morning. Over $2,000,000 is invested in the tanning and currying business in Peabody and Salem, one-half of which is in Peabody. The product of the two places will amount to $10,000,000 a year.

That St. Louis Bank Thief.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 16.—The suspension of the Provident Savings bank is all the talk of the city. That the bank will never resume business is certain, but whether the depositors will be paid in full is a matter of doubt. The receiver and bank directors advise them to hold on to their claims, as they will all be paid in full, but notwithstanding this assurance a large number disposed of theirs Thursday to brokers at 75 cents on the dollar. The shortage is now said to be fully $70,000, and further investigation may increase it. Cashier Thompson has not been heard from yet, but it would not surprise a great many to see him turn up at any time.

Jay Gould's Yacht Wins the Regatta.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The steam yachts of the American yacht club left Larchmont Thursday morning for New London on their annual regatta and arrived in the following order: Atlanta, owned by Jay Gould, 4 hours, 31 minutes, 57 seconds; Yosomite, owned by W. K. Connor, 5 hours, 35 minutes, 38 seconds; Meteor, owned by A. E. Bateman, 5 hours, 35 minutes, 42 seconds; Lagonda, owned by J. C. Heagland, 5 hours, 54 minutes, 59 seconds.

Salisbury's Proposition.

LONDON, July 16.—Lord Salisbury has offered the Liberal-Unionists four seats in the cabinet and an equal ratio of lesser offices. He will permit Lord Hartington to be leader in the house of Commons, and select what office he chooses, except premier. Lord Salisbury proposes to again unite the premiership with the office of foreign secretary.

The total vote thus far is as follows: Conservative and Unionist, 1,455,955; Gladstonian, 1,382,118.

No Coalition.

LONDON, July 16.—The Daily Telegraph says: "There can be no coalition. Lord Salisbury must form a ministry from his own ranks." The Daily News says the Liberal dissidents hold the position in parliament coveted by the Parnellites. They are the arbiters of the fate of the government. Lord Hartington will form no alliance but will preserve his present independent position.

Forest Fires in Michigan.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Reports from Cedar Springs, Howard City, Whitehall, St. Ignace and Chase, Mich., tell of disastrous forest fires in those localities. At the latter place Thursday over $500,000 feet of lumber was destroyed. The forest fires are endangering other property of all kinds besides the great loss in timber which they are entailing.

CANNON DOWNS THE STRANGLER.

Evan Lewis Done Up in a Wrestle in Six Minutes—A Scurvy Trick.

CINCINNATI, July 17.—The catch-as-catch-can wrestling match between Tom Cannon and Evan Lewis, "the strangler," for $500 at the Grand opera house Thursday night resulted in Cannon's favor, after a struggle lasting only six minutes. "Parson" Davies acted as second for Lewis and Billy Gale looked after Cannon's interest. The announcement that Dr. Haighwey had been chosen referee was received by the audience with cheers, and all doubts were removed as to the genuineness of the match. The attendance was not as large as was anticipated, probably owing to the distribution of a large number of "dodgers" among the crowd in front of the opera house when the doors were opened, which read as follows: "Hippodrome at the Grand opera house. Cannon-Lewis. The people have been victimized enough. Faulkner and Bibby were enough!" The man who practiced this game on the gladiators is the notorious Ed Black, but in whose interest he lent himself to the outrageous proceeding is not known. Black was badly thumped by Faulkner later, and both men were landed at the Hammond street police station and locked up.

Cannon and Lewis were in good trim and at 8:45 they came together. Two minutes later the "strangler" was on the padded floor with both shoulders down. The second bout lasted four minutes and Cannon had the satisfaction of knowing that he would carry away the stakes and 70 per cent. of the gate receipts.

Parson Davis says his man was beaten fairly. He was not satisfied, however, and immediately after the fight challenged Cannon to wrestle again Friday night, Graeco-Roman style, best three in five falls for $500. This proposition has not as yet been accepted by Cannon, but the latter says he will wrestle any man in the world Graeco-Roman style inside of four or six weeks for $500 or $1,000 a side, Muldoon preferred.

All the Prizes at Toronto Carried Off by American Divisions.

TORONTO, July 16.—The prize drill competitions by the Knights of Pythias took place at the exhibition grounds Thursday. The judges consisted of two members of the United States army and one representative of the Canadian army. The decisions are as follows: Chicago division, first prize, $500; Terre Haute (Ind.) division, second, $300; Lincoln (Neb.) division, third, $200. There were only two points between the second and third.

In the next drill six divisions competed, viz.: Indianapolis, Fort Dearborn (Chicago), Kokomo (Indiana), Red Cross (Cleveland), Damon (Cincinnati), and Austin (Amsterdam, N. Y.) The judges had a difficult task to perform in awarding the prizes in this class. Kokomo carried off first prize, $1,000, and Fort Dearborn second, $600. Austin division came third. One of the Knights of the Indianapolis division got sick before the close of the movements, and they had to stop. Capt. Lane, of the Chicago division won the prize of $50 for the best commander. Orlando division of Florida got the prize of $50 for division coming the longest distance.

A reception by the lieutenant governor was tendered the members of the supreme lodge at the government house in the afternoon.

A Murderer's Wanderings.

CHICAGO, July 16.—William Dickson, who murdered Walter Graves, a civil engineer, in Cincinnati about three years ago and was sentenced to the penitentiary for life, was arrested here Thursday. Some time after Dickson was taken to Columbus the defense claimed the discovery of new testimony. Pending a new trial Dickson was released on bail and when the time fixed arrived Dickson was missing. During his wanderings for the past two years and a half Dickson says he has visited every portion of the United States and Canada. He arrived in Chicago about three months ago from Kansas City and was employed in a cheap restaurant here as a waiter. He will be taken to Cincinnati.

Dacey's Last Murderous Attempt.

WOODSTOCK, Ills., July 16.—Thursday morning James Dacey, the Chicago murderer, attempted to kill his spiritual advisor, Father Clancy, with a pair of scissors with which he had possessed himself unknown to the watchers. About noon the sheriff, accompanied by nine jail attaches and two Chicago deputies, approached his cell for the purpose of securing him. Standing with the scissors in his left hand, Dacey let out a roar and bade satan come on. There was quite a fight before he could be secured. His brother, who is here, considers this proof positive that he is insane. Nothing has yet been heard from the governor.

A Nebraska Scoundrel Steals Over $75,000

OMAHA, Neb., July 6.—Thursday evening's advices from Henkelman showed that the defalcation of Beltzer, cashier of the Dundy County bank, is fully as serious an affair as it first reported. He has, it is claimed, carried off money and securities to the amount of between $75,000 and $100,000, and is now supposed to be in Canada. Every business man in the little town is a heavy loser, together with many homesteading farmers in Dundy county, a large number of whom were depending upon their deposits in the bank to pay their homestead and pre-emption fees.

Will Hardly Escape Lynching.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 16.—A terrible crime was committed at Bridgeport, Ala., thirty miles from this city Wednesday night. Mrs. Lucinda Jones, an aged woman from Kentucky, went to that place to visit, arriving there at midnight. The station agent allowed her to spend the night in the depot, and he went home. About 2 o'clock a negro named Tilford Johnston broke into the depot and outraged the lady. He has been captured and confessed the crime. Johnson will hardly escape lynching.

Failure Follows Failure.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The failure of J. De Riviera & Co., of this city, has forced the suspension of the Esperanza Marble company of Rutland, Vt., and the Poultney (Vt.) Slate company, of both of which concerns J. De Riviera was one of the largest stockholders. The Esperanza quarry is considered one of the most valuable marble deposits in Vermont, and it will probably save the company from bankruptcy.

Sale of a Gas Plant.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The plant of the Consumers' Gas company was sold Thursday morning to John T. Lester, supposed to represent the Cummings, Kent, and Reyburn syndicate, for $1,950,000. Gen. George W. Smith was the only other bidder, and his highest offer was $1,945,000. The company had issued bonds for $3,000,000.

BLACKGUARD AND LIAR,

ONE STATESMAN CALLS ANOTHER AFTER THE PICKWICKIAN PLAN,

And is Answered in a Style Not Quite So Pickwickian—Three Reports on Payne—Scaling Down the River and Harbor Bill—In Response to the K. of L.—The Dynamite Treaty—Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—A decidedly vigorous interchange of remarks took place in the house Thursday while the resolution calling for an investigation as to the interpolation in the record of the wrong resolution in the matter of the alleged fraud of Lancaster of St. Louis was before the house. Glover said that not having been in the house when the resolution was offered he had learned since that an effort had been made by design to persuade the house that he had been guilty of an interpolation of the record. He had conferred with the gentleman from Arkansas [Breckenridge] and they had concluded that the gentleman from Indiana [Lowry] had incorporated by accident the wrong resolution in his report. If the gentleman had made the same inquiry he would have reached the same conclusion. Since the gentleman from Indiana had disclaimed any imputation on him [Glover] in this connection and did not charge or insinuate that he [Glover] had been guilty of a fraud, he [Lowry] would take no exception to the remark that any man who would make that statement—since the remark did not apply to a member of the house—was a blackguard and a liar.

Lowry said that so far as the pending resolution was concerned, he would simply repeat that he had reason to be believe that the substitution which had occurred had occurred through a mistake, but the committee of which he was chairman thought an investigation should be had. In concluding, Lowry said the language used by Glover was characteristic of those who were in the habit of associating with people accustomed to the use of such expressions. Some gentlemen were irrepressible in the way of being conspicuous for mischief on all possible occasions. There had been a description given of a character of this kind, that he was like a flea, a fly, and a flitch of bacon. Like a flea, he was on everybody's back; like a fly, he was in everybody's broth, and like a flitch of bacon, he never had his deserts until he was hung up. He regretted to have to say that there were gentlemen in this house who answered that description.

DISCOUNTING A BILL.

Twenty-Five Per Cent. Off Proposed—Another Extension—Labor Legislation.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—Three reports on the Payne bribery case were presented in the senate Thursday, Logan, Teller and Evarts reporting no case, as did the Democratic members, Pugh, Saulsbury, Vance and Eustis, while Hoar and Frye favored an investigation. All were ordered printed and placed on the calendar. Bills authorizing the retirement of Gens. Averill and Alfred Pleasanton were reported. The conference report on the legislative appropriation bill with disagreements on senate clerks, salary of assistant treasurer at Baltimore, clerks for the civil service commission and compensation of internal revenue officers, was submitted and the senate insisted on its views. The river and harbor bill came up again and action was taken on several amendments. The clauses regarding the Green and Barren rivers in Kentucky and the Muskingum river were retained in the bill. The appropriation for the Illinois river was increased to $150,000 and then McMillan moved to strike out all after the enacting clause and reinsert all the provisions reducing each appropriation 25 per cent. Pending debate on this the senate adjourned. During the day a house resolution further extending last year's appropriations to July 31 was passed.

The house passed a resolution further extending the appropriation of 1885 to the 31st inst. A resolution was adopted inquiring how one resolution was substituted in the record for another of a totally different character. The displaced resolution referred to certain alleged frauds of R. D. Lancaster, of St. Louis, and it was explained that the substitution was an error. District of Columbia business was then taken up without action and a resolution adopted for night sessions Thursday and Friday, the former to be for labor legislation. The conference report on the legislative bill was taken up but without action he house took recess until 8 p. m. At the night session the following bills were passed. To prevent the employment of convict labor and alien labor upon public buildings and other public works; amending the act to prohibit the importation and immigration of foreigners and aliens under contract or agreement to perform labor in the United States; to protect mechanics, laborers and tradesmen in the District of Columbia in their wages; a senate bill providing for the payment of per diem government employes for Decoration Day and the Fourth of July; directing the commissioner of labor to make investigation in regard to convict labor in the United States. A bill extending the provisions of the eight-hour law to letter-carriers met with some opposition, and pending action at 11 o'clock the house adjourned.

A DIVIDED COMMITTEE.

Three Reports on the Alleged Payne Bribery Case.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—The reports from the committee on privileges and elections in reference to the charges of bribery in connection with the election of Senator Henry B. Payne, of Ohio, and on the demand of citizens of Ohio for an investigation, were submitted to the senate Thursday morning. There are three them—one signed by Hoar and Frye, Republicans; one by Evarts, Logan and Teller, Republicans, and the other by Pugh, Saulsbury, Eustis and Vance, Democrats. The first recommended an investigation by the senate of the charges preferred, and the two last named do not think there is ground for an investigation.

Evarts, Logan and Teller, whose report is considered to be the most important, say the examination of the testimony suggests no support for the conclusion that Payne was guilty of such personal delinquency or turpitude as would invite or tolerate his expulsion from the senate for participation in the transaction which resulted in his election; that the course of the select committee of the legislature in not giving Payne an opportunity to be heard before them precludes any intimation that such a notion was entertained for a moment by that committee or the Ohio house of representatives. Neither do the signers understand that any member of the senate committee believes evidence to have been presented inculpating Mr. Payne in that alleged bribery. The next question is: The sitting senator being innocent, is there evidence that enough corrupted votes were cast for him to invalidate his election? To this question the signers answer, "No," and say there is no evidence to sustain a contrary opinion. The final conclusion is that there is no evidence which purports to prove that fraud corruption or bribery was employed in the election of Mr. Payne, affecting the votes given either in the caucus or in the legislature, whereby the election was carried by corrupt votes.

Hoar and Frye say they think there is evidence presented that makes an investigation necessary; that for the senate to refuse to listen to this complaint, would be taken as a declaration that it is indifferent to the question as to whether its seats are to be in the future the object of bargain and sale, or may be presented by a few millionaires as a compliment to a friend.

THAT ANTI-ROSSA TREATY.

Washington City Quid Nuncs in the Dark —Bayard Don't Deny the Report.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 16.—The cablegram received from London Wednesday night to the effect that an extradition treaty between England and the United States had been signed, and that it contained a clause providing for the surrender of dynamite miscreants, was the source of a good deal of comment in diplomatic and congressional circles Thursday. Further efforts to secure information upon the subject, however, were futile. Those who usually possess the most direct knowledge of international affairs expressed the most dense ignorance. Senators say there has been no such treaty before the senate, and treaties of this and kindred character are always subjects of senatorial digestion and action. When the dynamiters were attempting to destroy the house of parliament and other buildings in London, and threatening the capitol of the United States, there was talk of a treaty which would facilitate the extinguishment of the dynamiters organization and bring its members to justice, but it took no form.

Secretary Bayard said Thursday that he had read the United Press dispatch in regard to a new treaty having been negotiated between the United States and Great Britain, which included the extradition of dynamite miscreants. The rule of the department, he said, prevented such matters being made public in advance of their submission to the senate, otherwise he would be very willing at all times to give out news originating at the state department. As to whether there was such a treaty pending or not Secretary Bayard said he was not at liberty to say, but if there was, and it was ratified by the senate, it would be made public at the proper time. Further inquiry develops the fact that a few days ago a document was sent to the senate by Secretary Bayard, and without being read was referred to the committee on foreign relations. It is believed that this document was the treaty in question and that it will receive early attention.

THE PRESIDENT'S WARNING ORDER.

Generally Indorsed at the Capital—Republican Doubts of Its Enforcement.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—There was not much discussion at the capitol Thursday over President Cleveland's order forbidding federal officers from engaging actively in politics. Those Democratic senators who heartily sustain the president's reform ideas approve the order. There are Democrats who do not approve the order, but they are largely in the minority, if public expressions on the subject may be taken as proof. The general impression is that the president is thoroughly in earnest in what he says.

Many of the Republican senators give the president credit for sincerity, but some of them incline to the opinion that the order will to a considerable extent be nullified, because high government officials of the Democratic persuasion will not care to see it enforced.

CONTRACTION OF THE CURRENCY.

How It Will Be Brought About by Morrison's Resolution.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—When asked by a representative of the press what would be the effect of the Morrison resolution upon the national banks should it eventually become a law, United States Treasurer Jordan replied:

"The national banks hold about 65 or 70 per cent, or about $100,000,000 in round figures, of these bonds. The resolution would necessarily involve the retirement of the currency issues on these bonds, and the result would be a contraction of the currency to that extent. It would transfer the liability for the notes from the banks to the treasury, and they would be redeemable in due course of time. Their redemption would certainly take a year, and probably two. Until they were redeemed the government would profit. After that the places of the notes would probably be supplied by the silver certificates."

Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—Henry S. Welton, of Springfield, Ills., has been appointed special Indian agent, vice C. N. Dickinson, resigned. The president also appointed as receivers of public moneys: Luke A. Burke, of Ipswich, D. T., at Aberdeen, D. T., vice Buel E. Hutchinson, term expired. William G. Hobbs, of Cassville, Mo., at Springfield, Mo., vice James Dunars, term expired. James N. Welch, of Detroit, Mich., at Detroit, Mich., vice Lyman G. Wilcox, term expired. Also Commodore James E. Jouett, U. S. N., to be rear admiral and Commodore John Russell, to be rear admiral.

Developed a Bad Memory.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—The Platt select committee Thursday morning resumed the examination of C. A. Cleveland, who had stated that he was crowded out of his Indian tradership at Anadarko, I. T., by a brother of Senator (now Judge) Jackson, an appointee of the present administration. Senator Blackburn subjected the witness to a rigid cross-examination, and under it he developed a case of very defective memory.

Goode's Rejection Is Final.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—A careful survey of the field leads to the belief that the senate's rejection of Mr. Goode is final. Among others prominently mentioned in connection with the solicitor generalship—it being the opinion that a new nomination will be made—is Col. John R. Fellows, assistant district attorney, New York. Friends of Mr. Goode believe he will be tendered another federal office.

The Senate and the Surplus.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.—A member of the senate finance committee says the Morrison resolution to distribute the treasury surplus will be reported by the committee with a majority of one in its favor. The same gentleman also believes the senate will pass the resolution by a two-thirds majority.

She Shot Her Slanderer.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 16.—Emma Connelly, who shot and killed her slanderer, John Steedly, in a church at Midway, a week ago last Sunday, was tried Wednesday. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. The court-room was crowded, both the Connelly and Steedly families being widely known, and having many friends. The verdict is generally approved by the community.

Cole Younger as a Preacher.

Cole Younger, by far the ablest of the brothers, is a man of considerable education, and, with the inducements of reflection afforded by the retirement at Stillwater, has made much of himself. He is particularly well posted on the Scriptures—better than the average clergyman in many points—and now regularly preaches to his fellow convicts, delivering able addresses. He has a peculiar, blunt, yet not unpleasant way of speaking, and is the favorite preacher in the prison.—Minneapolis Journal.

No Flags of Any Kind.

The authorities of Liverpool do not appear to like gay colors. They have recently issued an order forbidding any householder to exhibit a flag of any kind outside of his house.—Philadelphia Call.

A shirts mit your back vas more worth as dwo in der shore.—Carl Pretzel.

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the animal fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unfailing source of relief from liver complaint, namely, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for over a quarter of a century has been achieving thorough cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kidney affection, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirements of families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

CONDENSED NEWS.

Washington Cockle, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of Peoria, died Thursday.

A loss of $60,000 was occasioned at Bloomer, Wis., by the burning of five business blocks.

The Republicans of the Second district of Indiana have nominated Rev. M. S. Ragdale for congress.

Having previously given large fortunes to his son and daughter, the late P. L. Cable, of Rock Island, willed about $2,000,000 to his widow.

The governor of Maine has requested the postmaster general to so modify the regulations for sending liquids by mail as to prevent violations of the prohibitory liquor laws of the states.

In the circuit court at Chicago, Thursday, the wife of George Middleton, of dime museum fame, was granted a divorce, $3,000 alimony, an allowance of $50 per month, and the custody of two children.

The managers of the railways centering at Chicago have decided to restore freight and passenger rates on July 20. J. N. Faithorn was appointed commissioner of the freight association, and E. P. Wilson of the passenger pools.

Judge Gresham having decided that the federal court had no jurisdiction in the cases against the John B. Jeffery Printing company, Judge Shepard has confirmed the sale of the plant to the judgment creditors, thus wiping out Jeffery's personal stock.

The resignation of a desk in the treasury department by Assistant Secretary Smith is said to have been brought about by delegations of civil service reformers from Boston and New York, who made charges of illegal action, and he gave up the place rather than suffer rebuke.

Boot and Saddle.

CHICAGO, July 15.—The most important event at Washington park Thursday, the race for the Washington park cup, was a fizzle, as there were but two starters—Lucky B. and Volante, both Baldwin's horses—and they walked over the course. The other races were won as follows: Bob Fisher 1 mile, Ban Bowman ⅝ mile, Alloe 1⅛ miles, Warrenton 1 mile, George McCullough 1½ miles, hurdle.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Dry Monopole won the 1 1-16 miles at Monmouth Park course Thursday, Tremont the ⅝ mile, The Bard the 1½ miles, Favor the 1 3-16, Letritia the 1 1-16 miles, and Col. Watson the steeplechase, full course.

Jilted at the Altar.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., July 16.—Miss Ida Clarke, an attractive young dress-maker of this city, espoused the Jewish faith last Friday evening as a preliminary to marriage Thursday evening with a young Hebrew cigar-maker named Holland. Thursday Holland refused to keep his contract, although the wedding feast was prepared and the guests invited.

Nomination for Congress.

BOONVILLE, Ind., July 16.—The Democratic convention of the First congressional district met Thursday and after a stormy session of seven hours' duration, during which considerable hot blood was generated, Jams E. McCullough, of Gibson county, was nominated on the first ballot, defeating Maj. G. V. Menzies, of Posey.

The Monthly Mexican Revolution.

LAREDO, Tex., July 16.—The situation at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, is growing more serious, and it is feared a revolution can not be averted. Government troops are on the way to Mexico, but the revolutionists have secured a large number of Winchester rifles and may seize the custom house before the troops arrive.

Saved the Train.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 16.—The express train on the Baltimore & Ohio would have run into Jeramgson's run, near Corrygansville, Thursday, if it had not been for a discharged employe who found out that the trestle was washed away and signalled the train just in time. The run was a raging torrent, and the loss of life would have been terrible.

Poisoned by Sour Milk.

PEORIA, Ills., July 16.—Carl Meier, a grocer, his wife and three daughters, were poisoned Thursday with thick, sour milk sold by a man named Johnson. The doctor says they will recover if no inflammation of the stomach follows. It is supposed they were poisoned by acid from the milk can.

The Convict Mutiny Ended.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 16.—A special to The American says: The trouble among the convicts in the Dade coal mines at Coal City, Ga., was ended Wednesday evening by the surrender of the mutineers and their return to work. Two days' thirst and starvation brought them around.

SIXTY YEARS AGO.

THE FASCINATION OF A FISHERMAN'S LIFE IN THOSE DAYS.

When New England Boys Along the Sea-Shore Were Web-Footed—How Fish Were Caught in By-Gone Years—Curiosities of the Sea.

"This fishery question must excite a good deal of interest among the people of the seashore towns of Essex county," said a gentleman who was one of those who went "down to the sea in ships" more than sixty years ago to a reporter. "Most of the boys down there are web-footed, at least they were when I was one of them. In those days, as soon as age and mother permitted, the boy would tie up his effects in a bundle-handkerchief and apply for a berth on some of the outward-bound fishing craft.

"The method of fishing has changed since my day. Seining was never practiced then. I have heard it spoken of among skippers, but the general opinion was that it was impracticable, as the mackerel were so shy and sprightly that they could not be surrounded. But the fishermen have found out how to do it since then. In my time there would be eight or ten boys strung along on the starboard side of the vessel as near together as they could comfortably fish. Each had two lines attached to the rail. The hook had a lead sinker, called a 'gig,' cast on. The bait was merely slipped on the hook—anything white or shiny would answer, a piece of pork rind or fish, or even a white rag. Sometimes a 10-cent piece was put on over the hilt of the hook before the lead was cast on. It made a good bait, and would wear for some weeks. The usual bait was a small, round piece cut from the throat of a fresh mackerel. Each man stood in fishing, with his left thigh against the rail, facing toward the stern of the vessel, holding a line between thumb and finger of each hand, ready at first call to yank in the line, the skipper, meantime, throwing over bait of mackerel ground in a mill, to attract the school, while the minds of the men were on their lines.

A WELL-MANAGED CREW.

A good day's fishing would yield 150 'wash barrels' of mackerel. A 'wash barrel' was one in which the fish were placed, with water, to soak out the blood before salting. In a well-managed crew about half the gang would knock off fishing at about noon and go to dressing—that is splitting and gibbing. The splitter had a board, laid across a tub made of a half hogshead, on which he laid the fish and ran a knife down the back from nose to tail. He slid the fish to the gibbers, two of whom sat by to remove the entrails and throw the fish into the barrel of water. When the barrel was full the water was turned off, but immediately replaced with water drawn from over the side of the vessel. This was the second rinse, which was poured off after a few minutes, like the first. The fish were salted in barrels with Liverpool dry salt. I was one of a crew of ten who caught, dressed and salted 210 barrels of mackerel in one day off Mount Desert.

"There were many curiosities of the sea that interested the boys on their first voyage. Lying at anchor off Cape May, we were kept awake after turning in by the drum-fish which made such a pounding on the bottom of the vessel that sleep was almost impossible. Then we frequently caught a toad-fish, a short, plump, bighly-colored specimen of marine natural history. Scratching his body with a chip causes him to swell up as round as a bladder, and to burst if the operation was long continued. We frequently found a kind of sucker attached to deep-sea cod. They are from one to two feet long, eel-shaped, with a round mouth, set with hooked teeth, with which they attach themselves to the fish so firmly that they will allow themselves to be pulled asunder before they will let go. Another curious thing is what the sailors call a salve-bag—a parasite, black in color and about the size of a large beetle, which it somewhat resembles. Their bodies are filled with a substance which looks like salve, and is said to possess excellent healing qualities."—Boston Herald."

Horses, Dogs and Other Animals.

The interest which yearly increases in horses and other domesticated animals will be as much manifested as ever at the summer resorts. Although attended with much difficulty and annoyance, people with horses of their own, used either for the saddle or driving, try in many instances to have them removed to the seaside or suburban places where they make their longest suburban stay, in order that they may have the enjoyment of them.

To a greater extent this is the case with pet dogs, though many of the best summer hotels and boarding-houses object to receiving them and there is hardly a hotel man who has not had to meet and settle the difficult dog problem; for while guests, as a rule, object to having miserable little whipper-snappers trotting and snarling around the passages and seeing them, as sometimes happens, brought into the dining-room, there are many persons who think so much of their pet bow-wows that they will not go themselves where their canine darlings are refused. It is mainly in order to gratify the growing human interest in the animal world that at so many of the places of summer resort special accommodations for horses and other animals are being provided and facilities increased for having them contribute to the amusement of the great crowds that congregate at these places.—Philadelphia Times.

NEARLY A THOUSAND

TALESMEN REQUIRED IN CHICAGO TO SELECT A JURY FROM.

The Anarchist Jury Finally Selected—Arraignment of the Prisoners by the States Attorney—The Story of Their Conspiracy as He Expects to Develop It in the Testimony.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The jury which is to try the Anarchists is at last completed, after many weeks of examination of talesmen. The last one to be chosen was Howard T. Sanford, of Oak Park, and a voucher clerk in the freight department of the Chicago & Northwestern railway company. During the weeks in which the trial has been in progress 979 jurors were examined. There was a general feeling of relief when it was realized that the long and arduous task of securing the jury was ended.

States Attorney Grinnell at once began his opening address to the jury. Mr. Grinnell, as he began his address, had a big map of the scene of the Haymarket riot carried in and placed before the sworn twelve. He asked the jury to sit in judgment dispassionately, and be guided wholly by the evidence that would be adduced before them. The institutions of this country, he said, had been tramped under foot and belittled by the conduct of such men as participated in the Haymarket meeting of May 4. The citizens of this country believe in the institutions of the country, and believe that these institutions are above cavil, and have been since the declaration of independence. But our citizens, with their ideas of liberty, have been prone to put too much confidence in strangers who are enemies of the government. Continuing, he said the state would prove to the jury that Spies, no longer ago than last February, said that men were armed in this city for blood and riot and that Chicago was now ready for Anarchism. When told that if he advocated such doctrines he would be hung he replied that he was as good as George Washington and he was not hung. Spies, Neebe, Schwab, Parsons and Fielden have said that dynamite was king and have shouted "Down with the police and we will be free to riot." Parsons—the shame of our country—has defined the use of dynamite and has described its manufacture. And with this he said capitalists and policemen could be disposed of. Leaders of any great cause are either braves or cowards. Testimony will show that Parsons, Neebe and Spies are the most abject of cowards. They have advised dynamite and destruction for months and years, and now seek to establish an alibi when they have been connected with the proceedings of May 4. The firing on Sumter was a fearful thing, but it was open warfare and could not be compared with this secret attempt to destroy our laws.

Mr. Grinnell said the state was in possession of copies of the "Revenge" circular with the type used in printing it and the manuscript in Spies' handwriting from which the type was set. On Monday preceding the day of the riot there appeared in The Arbeiter Zeitung at the head of the editorial column a secret word: "Ipsalon." This word in English means "come," and was the signal agreed upon for calling the armed men together. Pursuant to that word the men went to Grief's hall on Lake street. Here the armed men assembled. Among these was Fischer, Lingg, Engle and Schnaubert. The hall was occupied and the men went into the basement. There the secret warfare was divulged. Engle was there and told the plan. "When you see in The Arbeiter Zeitung," said Engle, "under the letter-box the word 'Ruhe,' then be ready." Ruhe means rest or peace, and this word was the call to war. This word appeared Tuesday morning. It was double leaded and surrounded by marks calling attention to it. The copy which went to the printer who set this word was in Spies' handwriting. Everything was ready but the bombs, and Lingg was selected to make these. To him alone was intrusted the manufacture of the bomb used on May 4. We will prove to you that Lingg made that bomb and gave it to the man who threw it. On Tuesday morning eight bombs had been prepared; but more were needed, and he undertook to make them. Tuesday afternoon it was planned to distribute men throughout the city armed with bombs, who would throw them at every patrol wagon going towards the seat of trouble. All that night Lingg tramped the streets with bombs in his pocket, which he was only restrained from using by his friends. That meeting that night was fruitful of great results. Seven were killed and many wounded.

"When the order to disperse was given by Capt. Ward," said the states attorney, "Fielden stepped from the wagon and said in a loud voice, We are peaceable. At this remark, as though it was some secret signal, a man, who had before been on the wagon, taking a bomb from his pocket, lit the fuse and threw it into the ranks of the police. Fielden, standing behind the wagon, opened fire and kept it up for several minutes, when he in turn disappeared. Fielden was the only one of all the men who had a spark of heroism in him. He stood his ground until he saw that any further opposition was useless.

"I will try and show to you who threw the bomb, and I will prove to your satisfaction that Lingg made it. There never was a conspiracy yet where some conspirator did not divulge the secret. In this case the man was Seliger. There are a great many counts in the case, but murder is the main one. It is not necessary to bring the bomb-thrower into court. Though none of these men, perhaps, threw the bomb personally, they aided and abetted the throwing of it, and are as responsible as the actual thrower."

The prisoners listened to this terrible arraignment intently, and with the exception of Fielden all were visibly impressed with their perilous position. The defense waived their right to an opening address, and the taking of testimony will begin at once.

Can Not Understand It.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., July 16.—Hon. Mr. Foster, Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, stated Wednesday to a reporter here that he could not understand how Senator Frye, Mr. Dingley and others, could maintain that reciprocal legislation subsequent to the treaty of 1818 has made that treaty obsolete. The consequent conventions apply only to commercial relation. He stated that the orders to customs collectors are to hold vessels that are believed to have violated the treaty until the matter is reported to Ottawa for advice.

A BLOCKADE STILL HOUSE.

A Mortar and Pestle Worked by Water Power—"Mountain Dew."

But these unlettered sons of the mountains who are the manufacturers of illicit whisky are not of the worst type of criminals. They believe that they have a right to do as they choose with their own, and hence distill their corn instead of hauling it over almost impassable roads fifty or 100 miles away to market. The moonshiner calls in his neighbors, and with their aid and that of his wife and sons and daughters there is soon built a rude structure now so common in this mountain section, and popularly called a "blockade still house." The malt is pounded into a powder by means of mortar and pestle, which is operated by the water in the brook always hard by every still. A beam like an old-fashioned well sweep is arranged on the bank of the stream and poised on a fulcrum. On the end of the beam furthest from the brook is the mortar, large enough to hold several bushels of malt, and into this falls the huge pestle, a three or four feet section of a tree's trunk, some eight inches in diameter. On the other end of the beam is a bucket, sufficiently large to hold water enough to be heavier than the pestle, and this, being in position to catch the diminutive waterfall, gently presses downward when full, and, bearing the pestle aloft, sinks until it rests upon an incline plane, where the water pours out, and the pestle falls, only to be pulled up again as the bucket takes in water anew. This is a sort of pestle that will beat and pound away whether the moonshiner be with it or, in fear of the coming of the officers of the law, has hied himself away among the higher hills.

When a sufficient number of gallons of whisky have been made to justify a trip to market the mucular moonshiner and his force carry the precious fluid by the jugful to his humble home far down the mountain side, where the road begins. Onto the canvas-covered wagon the kegs are rolled, and down the mountain go the oxen or the mules, carrying into the pale of civilization the highlander's tribute to commerce. Away across the Blue mountains, the boundary line between the Carolinas, this freight is borne until driver and team are amid the cotton fields of the Palmetto state, where the thirsty planter hails with gladness the moonshine wagon, while the gay and festive villager, oppressed by local option views, extends the heartiest welcome to the contents of the kegs, and considers the dispenser of the dew a veritable alchemist, whose magical distillation flings over the commonplace of life the glamour of gilt edge.

The moonshiner thus distills and distributes until some revenue official overtakes him in his traffic. Then a trial at court, and, if he is convicted, a term at Albany, but if he is acquitted, as for lack of sufficient evidence he is likely to be, the moonshiner returns to his remote habitation, and, far up among the protecting mountains, kindles again the fires whose embers are scarcely cold. He lives with small crops and a large family, with little information and many wants, with the least of ambitions and soundest of appetites, until he passes away and sleeps with his fathers under the shadow of the mountains where he first saw the light, and where his uneventful days have been spent.—Chicago Herald

The Committee on Social Science.

Some time since the following query from Toronto was respectfully submitted: "Does our mental progress keep pace with that of other nations?" The query was given to the committee on social science for investigation, and Professor Hackensack Johnson, chairman, now begged leave to report. The committee had kept their eyes open and their tongues going. They had discovered that where one work on history or science was sold 10,000 fly sheets of some new love story were thrown upon the doorsteps of as many houses and eagerly read by the mother and her daughter.

They had found that for every one book of solid reading carried home by an adult 20,000 boys purchased dime novels relating to Indian slayers or "Old Sleuth" detectives. For every schoolbook in America there were five novels. Where one woman read her Bible 100 read a story paper. The committee were therefore of the opinion that "she does," and they asked to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.—Detroit Free Press.

Vis, Vita Propria. What is it? Scientists, Doctors, Lawyers and Ministers stand awe stricken and dumb-founded at the miraculous healing power possessed by Dr. Miner, whose portrait appears above.

was born in Allen, Allegany Co., N. Y., in 1832, of English and Scotch parentage. Longevity is marked on all his ancestry. With nerves as sensitive as the magnetic needle and muscles as strong as steel, with a well balanced frame to support them, it is apparent that he is a proper subject to possess this magnetic power in excess of other men. It is charged against us that we get this wonderful power from an electric battery worn upon our body and arms. This is false. We receive this power from our creator. You ask, what is it? We answer we don't know any more what it is than you do. We are daily healing the sick. All functional disturbances are controlled like magic by the laying on of hands, no medicines. The lame throw away their crutches and walk; life's current again courses through the palsied and withered limbs; the bloom of health flushes the pallid cheeks that death marked as its own, by the magicial touch of a man's hand.

Since the Savior of man healed the multitudes, nothing has equaled the wonderful and miraculous healing of this phenomenal man. It does not require weeks or months to prove to the afflicted that they will be benefitted, results are manifested at once We care nothing for the cause of your ailment. We treat conditions only and all functional abnormal conditions are controlled and permanently cured without medicines. Dr. Miner has leased Mrs. S. H. Shelton's residence for the summer where he can be consulted from 9 to 12 m, and 1 to 5 and 7 to 8 p. m. Will make calls outside of office hours: jun30-1m —There was a fight on West Milwaukee street near the corn exchange square last night in which a man whose name is not known but who, it is believed, hails from out of town, was very roughly used by one of the local toughs. The assault was entirely unprovoked and awakened much indignation.

—There was a chicken dispute behind a North Main street store this morning between two game birds that had been raised down in the fourth ward. The debate was interrupted after the first round, however, by a pugnacious little bantam that jumped in and whipped both of them, and then went back to scratching for stray kernels of corn.

—The firm of Richardson & Becker, boot and shoe dealers, West Milwaukee street, has been dissolved, L. H. Becker disposing of his interests to ex-Mayor Alex Richardson. The firm will hereafter be known as A. Richardson & Bro. We understand that Mr. Becker will soon enter the employ of a Boston boot and shoe firm as traveling salesman in the northwest. Good luck to him. He's a gentleman and a capital fellow.

—The rebuilding of the upper dam under the supervision of Mr. D. C. Ward is now nearing completion. The foundation of the large stone pier at the east side is being strengthened, the planking of the aprons and a little more filling with gravel is about all there is to do. The low water has given the workmen an excellent opportunity to do a good job, and appearances indicate that they have taken this advantage. We can now boast of having the strongest dam located on Rock river.

—The adjuster for the Phenix Fire Insurance company, of Brooklyn, made a flying visit to Janesville on Monday and settled the loss on Mr. Whitnall's house and barn, caused by the fire on July 5th. The loss on the barn was settled at $100, the full amount of the insurance, and is about what the barn was worth; the loss on the house was satisfactorily settled at $475. The settlement was brought about in ten minutes' time, and to the entire satisfaction of Mr. Whitnall. Mr J. C. Metcalf represents the Phenix in this city.

—Last evening, on the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets, as she bade good evening to her escort to the soda fountain, remarking (and suiting her action to the remark) that she must hurry to the meat market and procure some meat, she whirled around in time to be caught in the arms of a two hundred and fifty pound colored gentleman, who was walking rapidly in the opposite direction, and who threw up his arms to avoid a more serious collision. As he overheard the remark of the young lady he replied, as he let her go, "Thunder, I'm no meat market." She—"Oh, my," and quickly disappeared. The crowd smiled and passed on. Moral—Look before you make such a hurried wheel.

—It is said that in spite of the reports of rains that have fallen in different parts of the state recently, the farmers are still suffering from drougth. Around Janesville, and in fact all through Rock county, so far as we can learn, the only crop that promises reasonable returns is corn. Barley and oats are poor, good stands being the exception. The hay crop was not nearly up to the usual standard either, and fodder will very probably be scarce and high. The Milwaukee Sentinel reports that the drouth has had a considerable effect upon the business of the manufacturers of harvesters, although not so much on them perhaps as on the retail dealers who had ordered large stocks early in the spring.

—An exchange: Do you live in the city? Then be a citizen; don't be a chump. Don't lose sight of the fact that a city is a society of men. Don't forget that your business depends upon the business of your fellow citizens. Don't forget that the success of a city depends on the success of individuals. One bad atom taints the next one to it, and so on. Keep this in mind, don't be a bad atom. When a thing which promises good for the city comes up, don't sit at home and read about it and then forget it. Take hold, put your shoulder to the wheel with the rest. Contribute your mite, if it be only a cheerful word. If you're not going to help, don't kick and predict failure. Don't be a kicker, a kicker's a mule. If you haven't some hopeful advice to cheerfully give, don't kick and attempt to discourage those who have. Don't be a mischief-maker.

—Mrs. Victor P. Richardson and Miss Sarah M. Richardson, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Hamilton Richardson, entertained a large number of ladies and gentlemen last evening at the beautiful home of the parents in the second ward. It was a "Mikado Party," and the house and grounds were brilliantly illuminated and ornamented with appropriate emblems. It was a notable gathering of young society people of this city, and many of the characters assumed were unique, novel and rich. The beautiful strains of the "Mikado" music as played by the Anderson orchestra, as the joyous assemblage moved to and fro through the house and grounds, added much to the scene. At midnight an elegant supper was served. The party, in the originality of its conception and the perfection of every detail, has never been surpassed in this city.

THE ROCK COUNTY BAR.

Takes Action Upon the Death of a Member.

A meeting of the members of the Rock County bar was held in the circuit court chambers this afternoon to take action upon the death of Henry K. Whiton, of Chicago.

The following expression of sympathy for the bereaved friends and of esteem for the deceased was offered by Judge Bennett:

The members of the Rock County Bar have learned with profound sorrow of the death of Henry K. Whiton, Esq., one of the most prominent, upright and able members of the Bar of Chicago, which occurred in that city on Wednesday, July 14, 1876.

And the members of this Bar, where he was admitted, and who associated with him many years during his early practice, feel that they have sustained in his death the loss of a most worthy friend and brother; that we look with pride and great satisfaction upon the imperishable good name which an upright and honorable professional career won for him while a member of this Bar. And, as a mark of the high esteem in which we hold him for his manly virtues, as well as his upright, able and untarnished character as a lawyer, we will attend his funeral in a body, wearing the usual badge of mourning. And we avail ourselves of this opportunity of tendering to his greatly afflicted wife and children, borne down by the heaviest sorrow which could fall upon them, our tenderest and most profound sympathy.

Unanimously adopted, in open court, by the members of the Rock County Bar,

WM. G. WHEELER, Clerk.

July 16, 1886.

On motion the clerk was instructed to have this spread upon the minutes of the court.

HURT BY A FALLING WALL.

August Bartz Buried Under a Mass of Stone—An Accident at the Fair Ground.

This morning workmen were busy removing the old stone from what was formerly the foundation of the wooden buildings next to the stables of the Galbraith Bros. on East Milwaukee street. The lot is the one that will soon be occupied by the street railway company's barns. One of the men, August Bartz, was digging a trench in which the new foundations were to be laid, the old brick wall that had been left standing toppled over and when the other workmen rushed up Bartz was found buried beneath the debris. He was soon brought out and Dr. W. H. Palmer was immediately called and had the injured man taken to his home in the fourth ward. He will be confined to his home for some time to come; but just how long cannot be told as it is not yet known whether internal injuries have been sustained. No bones were broken in the accident and the principal danger is that some injury has been done to the spine.

Al. Parker, who is employed by H. D. McKinney, is now confined in doors on account of injuries received at the fair grounds this morning. He was standing between one of the barns and a wagon, when the horse attached to the vehicle began to back. Al. was jammed up against the building, and was crushed so that Dr. O. L. Clark was called to attend him. The injuries, although painful, are not considered serious.

HANGED.

Execution of Dacey at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, Ill., July 16.—James Dacey, the murderer of Ald. Gaynor, of Chicago, was hanged here to-day at 12:45 o'clock. Patrick Dacey, a brother of the condemned man, arrived here yesterday. Sheriff Hanchett, of Cook county, is here to advise with Sheriff Udell.

Personal.

—Mrs. and Mrs. D. T. Hayes and their daughter, Miss Lulu, of Chicago, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hayes, of the first ward.

—Mr. Stanley B. Smith has returned from his trip to the Gogebic iron regions

—Mrs. Gunn, of Chicago, is in the city visiting her daughter, Mrs. Richard J. Rooney, of the third ward.

—Miss Eloise Willard, known as Chicago's only Patti Sing, in the opera of "Mikado," and a member of the Chicago opera company, is a guest of Miss Minnie Drummond, Glen street, second ward.

—Colonel N. Smith has gone to St. Paul to represent the Wisconsin Charitable and Penal Institutions in the National Conference of Charities, which is now in session in that city.

AS A SUMMER RESORT.

The Qualifications of the Bower City for a Watering Place.

"Why do Janesville people go to Geneva or Delevan to camp?" asked a well known gentleman the other day. Every one gave it up, and when the one who had propounded the conundrum did the same he was questioned as to what be referred to.

"Well," he answered, "it seems funny to me that anyone should cart his outfit thirty miles when there is a place within six miles that comes as near perfection as any that I know of."

A few days later a Gazette man was out exploring, and after a little inquiry he made his way from the wood to the banks of Rock river and stood upon the spot referred to. What had been said about it was true, for a more suitable camping place could hardly be found. From somewhere back in the woods a brook of clear, spring water made its way to the river. On one side of the stream, was a clear stretch that sloped back about forty feet to where the trees began. On the other side the shore rose more abruptly. It is on the level plat about eight feet above the water's edge that the tents are usually pitched. The elevation insures good drainage in case of storms; the creek so near at hand furnishes a supply of pure water for every purpose; dry fire wood can be easily picked up and from the farm houses within half a mile all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

There are many other advantages besides those mentioned.

Notwithstanding the dry weather the bed of the river is still reasonably moist; and bass, pickerel and even bull heads and suckers are ready to gladden the hearts of anglers. On the eastern shore the hard sand bottom makes an inviting spot for bathing; and a light skiff drawn up into the creek shows that someone in the neighborhood appreciates the opportunities that are offered for enjoying a sail with a white ash breeze. To be sure there is another side to the question. It is not so fashionable to "camp out up the river" as it is to "sojourn at Geneva Lake." Rock river mosquitoes are not so aristocratic nor so insatiable as those at Delavan; "enjoying a bath" at the watering places drops down to "going in swimming" out here, and everything else is modified accordingly. And still, for those who go out of town simply for rest, and not to meet people from other places and keep on the go most of the summer, this place, not more than six miles from town on the western bank of the river, is a very pleasant one.

SUNDAY BALL PLAYING.

Complaint from Fourth Ward Residents.

To the Editor.

Now that the common council is worked up to the pitch of looking after the saloons on Sunday, why not go a step farther and look after the base ball players; and if there is not an ordinance prohibiting playing on Sunday, pass one! It is a disgrace to the city to have a public park turned into a ball ground all day Sunday, as is the fourth ward park, as it has been for several Sundays past. One old fourth ward resident suggests that the name be changed from Fourth ward park to "Gamblers' Green." We hope the marshal's patrol wagon will soon be ready to look after this class of Sunday rowdyism. If they want to play let them go up the river or on Bunker Hill, away from people who want a quiet Sabbath.

CITIZEN FOURTH WARD.

Our correspondent's attention is called to ordinance No. 68, which reads as follows:

SECTION 1. No person or persons shall hereafter play any game of ball, or toss or throw any ball in or upon any street or public ground in the city of Janesville.

SECTION 2. Any person who shall violate the provision of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars nor less than two dollars.

Caledonian Social.

The members of the Janesville Caledonian society, with their families, held a social at their rooms in the Court Street M. E. church block last evening. The attendance was quite large, and the following programme, which was exceptionally well rendered, was a part of the evening's enjoyment:

Music—"Auld Lang Syne Quickstep."........ Miss Scott.
Reading........................ Mr. Wm. Paul.
Song—Robin Thompson's Smiddy........... Hon. Andrew Barlass.
Song—"The Maid of Dundee"............. Miss Eloise Willard
Reading—"Becky Wilson's Courtship."..... Mr. John McCulloch.
Song—Janet and Me...................... Mr. Mathew Paterson.
Song.................................. R. W. Scott.
Recitation—"The Emigrant's Farwell to Scotland."............................. Adam Scott.
Song—"Bonnie Doon"................... Mr. Geo. Skinner.
Recitation—"Lord Ullin's Daughter"....... Mr. Wright.
Reading................................ Mr. Gallety.
Song—"Comin' through the Rye"........... Miss Willard.

A special meeting will be called July 29th to make arrangements for a harvest home party, to be held in August.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements, namely: Dr. James Mills, William Paul, James Galbraith, Chas. G. Drummond and John McCulloch.

Concordia Picnic.

The Concordia society will hold their annual picnic at Wheeler's grove on Wednesday, July 21st. The grounds will be nicely fitted up and everything done to make the day one of pleasure. The male chorus of eighteen voices will sing at the grounds in the afternoon. The day will close with a grand ball at Concordia hall in the evening. The Catholic Cornet band will play at the grounds in the afternoon.

Notice.

Any one having wool desiring to have it carded into spinning rolls, can leave it at the Centeral house with Chauncy Stevens, who will send it to his brother, Kilbey Stevens, at Lake Geneva, who will card it and return the rolls to the Central house. I will be responsible for all goods left with me and warrant good satisfactory work. Also all kinds of dyeing ladies' and gentlemen's clothing fast colors. CHAUNCEY STEVENS.

NOXIOUS WEEDS.

The Law Requiring their Destruction—Commissioner of Canada Thistles

The republication of the law relating to the destruction of noxious weeds will be of interest at this time, and people living in the city will confer a favor upon the commissioner by giving information of the existence of the "weeds" in their respective localities. The law reads:

Section 1. Every person or corporation shall destroy upon all lands which he or they shall occupy or control, all weeds known as Canada thistles, burdock teasel, white daisy and snap dragon, at such time, and in such manner as shall effectually prevent them bearing seed. In like manner shall he or they destroy also any of the above mentioned weeds standing or growing as far as the center of public highways, lanes or alleys adjoining the lands owned or controlled by him or them.

Section 2. If the occupant of any such lands shall fail to so destroy such weeds as so required, after having six days' notice in writing by the commissioner of Canada thistles, such occupant shall be fined five dollars for the first offense, and ten dollars for each offense thereafter.

Section 3. There shall be appointed by the town supervisors of each town or by the city council of any city, as the case may be, some competent person styled "commissioner on Canada thistles" who shall be required to take the same oaths as town officers, and shall hold his office for one year and until his successor is appointed and qualified. The board may for any good cause remove said commissioner and appoint a successor to serve during the unexpired term.

SECTION 4. The commissioner shall carefully inquire concerning the existence of noxious weeds in his township or precinct, and in case any person, persons or corporation occupying or controlling any lands within this state shall neglect to destroy any Canada thistle, burdock, teasel and snap dragon growing on any lands owned or controlled by him or them, or on any highway, lane or alley adjoining such lands, it shall be the duty of the commissioner to destroy or cause to be destroyed all such weeds. He shall spend as many days as the supervisors or city council may deem necessary, and for each day spent shall receive one dollar and a half per day and one-half of all fines collected, upon presentation of his account therefor, verified by his oath and specifying by separate items against each piece of land, describing the same; and the respective amounts shall be placed on the next tax roll in a separate column headed for "destruction of weeds," as a tax against the lands upon which such weeds were destroyed, and be collected as other taxes.

SECTION 5. It shall be the duty of the chairman of every town board at the annual town meeting of each year to read aloud to such meeting the whole of this act.

SECTION 6. All previous acts in relation to noxious weeds and all amendments thereto are hereby repealed.

A PHOSPHORESCENT CEMENT.

The Manifold Uses of Luminous Concrete—Guides and Beacons.

A method of utilizing the luminous powder prepared mainly as a sulphide of calcium for admixture with cements, plaster of Paris and concrete has been recently invented by a couple of London men, the object being to prepare the articles with a self-contained phosphorescent property instead of coating them with luminous paint. As an example, the patentees take of cement, such as is known as Keen's Parian or other suitable make, in varying proportions, as, for instance, two pounds to five pounds to one pound of the luminous powder; mix the same with water, and then mould it to required shape in the usual way, or lay it on to ceilings or walls by means of a trowel.

The patentees attach importance to placing the moulded articles, as soon as they have been dried, in a bath of paraffine wax and benzoline or other suitable weather or water proofing substance. In the case of using the luminous cement upon a wall or ceiling, they sponge or brush the surface over with a solution of paraffine wax and benzoline or other suitable damp-proofing solution. The uses of a luminous cement are manifold: For the garden—luminous concrete as edging to garden paths and carriage drives, for guides and beacons at the entrance gates of drives, insides of stables, the base of balustrades, or the entirety of balustrades. For roads—as luminous beacons at corners of dark country lanes, and at the ends of bridges, ends of walls, and curbs of footpaths. For docks—for edging of piers and wharves. For waterworks—for the safety and dispatch of night work by the erection of luminous guides and beacons and for fire plug notices on walls. In short, for any places where the light of day will sufficiently excite the phosphorescent property as to render the cement or concrete work luminous by night.—Scientific American.

The Prussians, English and Russians.

The whole character of the Prussian is above all governmental. In this lies our strength—as well as the reason that we Prussians and the north Germans generally, who are influenced by us, are rarely attractive to others. In the English and in the Russian this governmental stamp is less predominant. The English are, notwithstanding their peculiar manners and customs, the freest nation in all the civilized world. Their social laws tend to lay down firm but convenient laws for human intercourse. A man's position in society depends upon the judgment of society only, not on the judgment of the government, and the idea of a "gentleman" is the measure by which the English measure a man. It is otherwise with the Russian. He has no idea of gentlemanliness. But there is a small part of Russian society which is as free from the influence of the government as the English themselves, and where the social laws are also self-imposed. Of Russian society in general it must be said that it bears neither the governmental stamp of Prussia nor hardly a trace of the order of English society; it is a loose, shapeless mass, which, however, by individual amiability, is astonishingly attractive. But the one thing which is peculiar to us Prussians—namely, the governmental character of society—can be found neither among the English nor the Russians. If we want to be anything in society we must be soldiers or officials, otherwise we are nothing.—German Newspaper.

The Tomb of Abelard and Heloise.

News comes from Paris that M. Gounod is about to compose an opera founded on the story of Abelard and Heloise. Wonder if he will weave in anything about their tomb in Pere la Chaise, to which disappointed lovers make pilgrimages, decking it with funeral wreaths! In an open space above the tomb recline two marble figures side by side, which are said to be from the original tomb of those unfortunate lovers. But they were not. The cold, unromantic fact is that the effigies are from different tombs in an old Paris church that was destroyed by the revolutionists nearly 100 years ago, and they did not even belong together. The tomb itself is constructed of the remains of other tombs, and nothing about the monument ever had any connection with Abelard and Heloise until brought to Pere la Chase and rechristened.—Texas Siftings.

Planting Evergreens Among Fruit Trees.

Michigan fruit growers claim that pine trees scattered through an orchard have a beneficial influence in driving away the moth of many of the destructive insects which prey upon apples and apple trees. It is supposed to be the strong effluvia issuing from the turpentine of the pine. Others assert that the pine in all its varieties throws off constantly in cold weather a large amount of warmth or caloric, which has a favorable influence on surrounding trees during the winter season. In fact it is contended by some scientific men that all evergreen trees have this influence.—Chicago News.

The Hard-Working Element and the Frivolous—Correcting the Students' Work.

The hard-working element is mostly composed of Finns, Danes and Norwegians—northlanders to whom art is a terribly earnest thing and who rarely, if ever, mingle with the more frivolous French, American and British sections. During the ten minutes of repose which is allowed to the model every hour these serious ones collect in little knots, and in curious languages (which sound vaguely like German cut up and hardened into cakes for exportation) they discuss each other's work, or else one poses and the others make pencil sketches of her.

It is curious to know what a large percentage of these northerners there are in nearly every studio. They are almost all "serious"—that is, they work with a definite object, their average or work is consequently high, and, although they do not join in the general "frivol" of the studio, they are always ready to help a struggling beginner, or to give a timely criticism to any one in difficulties. There are generally two professors, who come twice a week to correct the students' work, one in the morning, the other in the afternoon. Their arrival is looked forward to with a fearful joy. You hear a heavy step on the stair. "C'est lui!" says some wag near the door, and everyone begins to rub out suddenly found faults with frenzy, as Jacques, the garcon, comes in to make up the fire, or an unkempt Italian puts in her head to know if a model is wanted.

However, when, after many false alarms, the professor really appears, the joy of anticipation is lost in the horrid discovery of the mistakes which seem to break out all over your drawing as you feel the master coming nearer and nearer. When you dismount from your high stool, to allow him to ascend in your place, your terrors have not unfrequently so quickened your eye that you know instinctively that he will correct parts with which you were blandly pleased before he came. It would be interesting to know if this is an instance of thought reading on the part of the pupil, or merely the working of an unnaturally stimulated conscience. The professor's criticisms are usually very short, and most frequently severe. Then he passes on, leaving what had been a sufficiently self-satisfied young woman a broken-hearted ruin.—Magazine of Art.
